EQUITY ALLOCATION BY REGION - as of 3/31/2019

Investments in international markets present special risks including currency fluctuation, the potential for diplomatic and political instability, regulatory and liquidity risks, foreign taxation and differences in auditing and other financial standards. Risks of foreign investing are generally intensified for investments in emerging markets. Top holdings may include both equity and fixed income securities of certain issuers mentioned above and exclude cash, money market funds, & U.S. Treasury bills. Alpha is a measure of performance on a risk-adjusted basis. Alpha takes the volatility (price risk) of a mutual fund and compares its risk-adjusted performance to a benchmark index. The excess return of the fund relative to the return of a benchmark index is a fund's alpha. Beta is a measure of the volatility, or systematic risk, of a security or a portfolio in comparison to the market as a whole. A beta of 1.0 means that the share price moves exactly in line with the market. A beta over 1.0 suggests the share price will typically be more volatile than the market, and conversely, a beta below 1.0 indicates that the share price will typically be less volatile than the market. Cash categorized represents money market, certificates of deposit and any other cash equivalent vehicles. You should carefully consider the investment objectives, potential risks, management fees, and charges and expenses of the Fund before investing. Active Share is defined as "the percentage of the fund's portfolio that differs from the fund's benchmark index. Investments in commodities may be affected by overall market movements, changes in interest rates, and other factors such as weather, disease, embargoes and international economic and political developments. Commodities may subject the Fund to greater volatility than investment in traditional securities. All portfolio holdings data sourced by Pekin Hardy Strauss and Morningstar Direct.
